If the supervised person is actively engaged in any investment-related business or occupation, including if the supervised person is registered, or has an application pending to register, as a broker-dealer, registered representative of a broker-dealer, futures commission merchant ("FCM"), commodity pool operator ("CPO"), commodity trading advisor ("CTA"), or an associated person of an FCM, CPO, or CTA, the business relationship, if any, between the advisory business and the other business is disclosed below.

Fowler College of Business/Lecturer; CTR Wealth Inc./Business Entity for Tax Purposes Only; WCG SD LLC/Business Entity for Tax Purposes Only.

Insurance Agent

Your financial advisor is licensed to sell insurance and receive commissions for insurance sales, through WCG's affiliated entity WCG Insurance or an independent insurance agency. When selling insurance, your financial advisor has a financial incentive to recommend insurance products based on the compensation received, rather than on the client's needs. If insurance is sold through WCG Insurance, WCG addresses this conflict by maintaining a supervisory system to confirm that insurance recommendations are suitable and appropriate. If insurance is sold through an independent insurance agency, WCG addresses the conflict by reviewing and approving the financial advisor's request to conduct the activity as an outside business activity. If you have any questions regarding the compensation your financial advisor receives when recommending insurance, you should ask your financial advisor. You are under no obligation to purchase insurance through your financial advisor.

Item 5 - Additional Compensation

This section includes details regarding if someone who is not a client provides an economic benefit to the supervised person for providing advisory services. For purposes of this Item, economic benefits include sales awards and other prizes, but not the supervised person's regular salary, if any.

Your financial advisor can receive economic benefits from persons other than clients in connection with advisory services. Your financial advisor provides services in an Asset Management account and may recommend mutual funds. Only no-load and load-waived mutual funds are available to be purchased in such asset management accounts.

However, some of these mutual funds may pay distribution or service fees (e.g., 12b-1 fees) payable to LPL Financial. However, when your financial advisor provides investment advisory services, it is as a fiduciary under the Investment Advisers Act and has a duty to act in your best interest and to make full and fair disclosure to you of all material facts and conflicts of interest.

Your financial advisor can receive compensation from product sponsors and certain third-party vendors. Compensation may include such items as gifts valued at less than $100 annually, an occasional dinner or ticket to a sporting event, or reimbursement in connection with educational or training events or marketing or advertising initiatives. Such compensation may not be tied to the sale of any products.

Your Advisor receives asset-based advisory fees in LPL-sponsored managed account programs as an IAR of WCG Advisors, LLC. LPL shares a portion of the account fee you pay with your advisor, and the amount of these fees can be more or less than if the client paid separately for investment advice, brokerage, and other services. The receipt, of advisory fees, presents a conflict of interest causing your Advisor to have a financial incentive when recommending to open an account under the LPL-sponsored managed account program. The conflict is addressed by the client receiving disclosure documents prior to or at the time an account is opened. In addition, as part of your advisor's fiduciary duty, your advisor will endeavor at all times to put the interest of the client first and will only make recommendations when they are reasonably believed to be in the client's best interests.

If your financial advisor provides you services in a Strategic Wealth Management (SWM) account, you pay LPL a transaction charge that varies depending on the type of security you buy or sell. If your financial advisor provides services to you in a SWM II account, your financial advisor pays LPL for transactions depending on the type of security. In the case of mutual funds in SWM II, the amount your financial advisor owes to LPL depends on the amount of recordkeeping fees that LPL receives from the mutual fund and/or whether the sponsor of the mutual fund participates in LPL's "No Transaction Fee Network." The fact that your financial advisor pays transaction charges in SWM II presents a conflict of interest because it creates a financial incentive for your advisor to select a lower transaction charge security type or mutual fund. In particular, your financial advisor has an incentive to select No Transaction Fee Funds for your accounts to avoid paying transaction charges. It also creates a financial incentive for your advisor to not place transactions in your account. However, when your financial advisor provides investment advisory services, he or she is a fiduciary under the Investment Advisers Act and has a duty to act in your best interest and to make full and fair disclosure to you of all material facts and conflicts of interest.

Your financial advisor acts as a (referral agent to, or engages as a co-advisor) with, certain third-party asset management firms (TAMPs). In such case, he or she receives compensation from the TAMP either in the form of a referral payment or an advisory fee, and you are provided disclosure about the arrangement and the compensation to be received at the time of the referral or engagement. Your financial advisor may also receive compensation in addition to a referral or advisory fee. For example, some TAMPs pay or reimburse financial advisors for attending conferences or for expenses for workshops, seminars presented to clients, or advertising, marketing, or practice management. The eligibility of a financial advisor to receive such payments or reimbursements is often based on the number/amount of assets referred by the financial advisor to the TAMP.

Item 6 - Supervision

This section explains how the firm supervises the supervised persons, including how the advice the supervised person provided to clients is monitored.

Jimmy Lee is the CEO of WCG Wealth Advisors, LLC. He is responsible for all activities of the firm, however, the compliance activities are monitored by the Chief Compliance Officer (“CCO”) and the Compliance Department. Compliance staff uses tools that monitor the advisory services provided by your financial advisor, for example, with respect to asset allocation, concentration, and account activity where additional scrutiny or analysis may be appropriate. If you have any concerns, please contact Rosemary Richard (CCO) at (702) 263-8379 or by email at compliance@wealthcg.com.
